

The Corona Creed

Promise Yourself...

- To be so strong that a virus can't disturb your peace of mind.
- To talk masks, toilet paper, and ventilators to every person you meet.
- To make your hands feel that there is something on them.
- To look at the sterile side of things and make your hand washing come true.
- To think only of the test, to work only for the test and to expect only the test.
- To be just enthusiastic about the quarantine of others as you are about your own.
- To forget the toilet paper of the past and press on to the bidet of the future.
- To wear a corona virus mask at all times and give everyone you meet a mile.
- To give so much time to dying, cutting, and styling your hair that you have no time to laugh at others.
- To be too large for sweats, too noble for carry out, too strong to miss sports, and too happy to dwell on the stock market bubble.

By Joe Madden – Centerville Noon Optimist Club – with Apologies to Christian D. Larson